Dispatch Says the Attack is Now in Progress

ANOTHER RUSSIAN SHIP LOST

Viceroy Alexieff Reports Disaster To St. Petersburg—Day's News From the Far East.

London, June 8.—(Bulletin)—The St. James Gazette says that a rumor was current on stock exchange today that Port Arthur had fallen. The rumor cannot be confirmed.

London, June 8.—(Bulletin)—The Exchange Telegraph Company today reports a rumor of the fall of Port Arthur. The Exchange's report says the Japanese lost 11,000 men.

Chifu, June 8.—According to a report which has reached here, the Japanese forces occupy a semi-circular line 24 miles long, near Port Arthur, and are busy mounting heavy guns on the neighboring heights. These long ranges will permit great convergence of the Japanese fire while the fire of the Russians must be scattered against a wide circumference.

RUSSIA LOSES ANOTHER.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—Viceroy Alexieff today reports the loss of another Russian ship. His dispatch follows:

"Rear Admiral Witgert reports that the gunboat Bobr, strongly supported our right flank in the battle of Kir Chow, aided by the torpedo boats, Bournay and Boyky. He further reports that on May 26 ten torpedo boats were sent out against the Japanese. While returning one struck the rocks and sank. The crew were saved."

ATTACK IN PROGRESS.

Rome, June 8.—A dispatch received from Yin Kow, Manchuria, this morning says that an attack on Port Arthur has been proceeding since Saturday, both from land and sea. It is asserted that the fall of the fortress is imminent.

CONDITIONS AT PORT ARTHUR.

Tokio, June 8.—(Bulletin)—Japanese gunboats made a close reconnaissance off Port Arthur on Monday for the purpose of examining the entrance to the harbor. They were exposed to a severe cannonade. Gunboat No. 4 was hit eight times and sustained some damage. One sailor was killed and two wounded.

The above dispatch would seem to indicate that the reports of a naval battle at Port Arthur on Monday was premature. The heavy firing reported by the junks arriving at Chifu, was in all probability the cannonading of the gunboats making the reconnaissance.

Excitement Subsides.

Shelbyville, Ind., June 8.—Excitement in the vicinity of St. Vincent's Catholic school is diminishing. The tramp who broke into the building and attempted to assault Edna E. Lawlis, 17; Margaret Danliss, 18, and Mother Theodora is safe in jail. He says his home is in old Mexico and he gives the name of Eugene Daze and his age as 28. He has been identified by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hirt, on whose premises he attempted an assault after he left the school. Two charges of robbery and attempted assault will be brought against him. He says he does not want to stand trial before a jury of twelve farmers and he will probably plead guilty before Judge Morris today.

ASLEEP

Since Last Friday and All the Doctors In Marion Are Unable To Awaken Her.

Marion, Ind., June 8.—Mrs. Albert Jaras has been asleep since last Friday night. Her husband is an oil operator. He left home Saturday morning without awakening his wife. When he returned Saturday night she was not awakened. He was unable to arouse her and called Dr. Patterson, who worked with her all night without success.

Nearly every physician in the town has been called in consultation, but the case is one of mystery and they are unable to diagnose it.

Dr. Patterson said he believed a clot of blood had formed on the brain, but there is no sign of apoplexy or paralysis. The woman appears to have good use of her body, but is simply in a deep slumber from which she cannot be awakened.

HEADS

Chopped Off By Governor Yates as Result of Illinois's Political War—More to Follow.

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—Governor Yates yesterday started the guillotine to work decapitating those office holders already condemned as traitors to his cause in the recent Republican State convention. Twenty-six heads rolled into the basket, but the executioner grimly announces that the slaughter has just begun. Today's victims were the followers of Congressman Howard Snapp and Warden Murphy, of the Joliet Penitentiary, who flopped to Lowden on the day preceding the final ballot. Murphy has been acting as Yates's floor manager.

"It takes time to get the details of the treachery practiced upon Governor Yates during the state convention," said Secretary Timney. "You may be assured that the list is not yet complete. It is Governor Yates's purpose to give professional politicians a salutary lesson on the subject of loyalty in politics."

The Governor has divided the crime of political treason into two classes, but he has fixed the same punishment for both. One class is described as office holders, who, as delegates, failed to give the Governor the support to which he was entitled by reason of the honors conferred upon them. The other consists of office holders who were not delegates, and who did not actively interest themselves in the Governor's cause.

"GUESS I'M GUILTY."

Says the Woman in Black, Charged With Passing Forged Checks.

Evansville, Ind., June 8.—A woman dressed in black and wearing a heavy veil was arrested early this morning on the charge of passing forged checks on merchants. Her plan was to enter a store and after giving an order present a forged check of from $3 to $5. Several business men say they were victimized.

Mrs. Brown says she has lived in Birmingham, Ala., several years and that at one time her husband was a prominent railroad man there employed by the Louisville & Nashville. She stated she came from St. Louis here, where she had been attending the World's Fair.

When arraigned in police court and asked if she was guilty she said: "I guess I am guilty."

The judge ordered a plea of not guilty entered and set the case for hearing today.

New York, June 8.—Fifty thousand dollars' worth of diamonds and jewelry were stolen last night from the Hotel La Marquise, in East Thirty-fifth street. An hour later the valuables were found by the police in a furnished room in East Thirtieth street, occupied by William J. Darbs and George Glocker, the night clerk and head bell boy, respectively, at the hotel. Both men are under arrest. Most of the jewels were the property of Mrs. Halley Corwin, wife of a Brooklyn millionaire.

BAIL

Too High So Woman Went to Jail

MRS. H. ELIAS ARRESTED FOR BLACKMAIL

Has Her Case Set for Next Friday Afternoon

OFFICERS USED THEIR AXES

In Smashing Way Through Doors of Mansion—Woman Shrieked When Police Invaded Home.

New York, June 8.—Hannah Elias, the octogenarian, who was arrested last night, charged with extorting $700,000 from Millionaire John R. Platt, was arraigned in court this morning. On motion of counsel, the case was adjourned until Friday at 2 p. m. Bail was fixed at $50,000 and Mrs. Elias was remanded to the Tombs.

A squad of police with several detective sergeants from police headquarters, process and subpoena servers, accompanied by a representative of the district attorney's office, went to the residence of Hannah Elias, who is charged by John R. Platt with having blackmailed him out of nearly $700,000, and with axes smashed their way through both outer and inner iron doors of the mansion on Central Park West and invaded the Elias woman's room.

Mrs. Elias was in bed and shrieked with fright when the invading army came into the room.

She was at once served with papers in both criminal and civil suits and was ordered to dress and accompany the officers on a criminal charge of blackmail.

St. Louis, June 8.—Manuel Cervera, a champion bull fighter of Spain, was shot in the heart and instantly killed in a room in the Mozart Flats by Carlton Bass, shortly before noon today. The alleged murder grew out of trouble over salaries. Both men belonged to the company brought to St. Louis by the Norris Amusement Company, whose bull ring was burned by a mob Sunday afternoon. Bass says he had had no salary in St. Louis and has been penniless and hungry.

Judge Blair ordered a new venire drawn and they will report today to look into such charges as may be brought to its notice.

RELEASED

From a Dungeon in South America An Alabama Judge, Who Defaulted, Is Back Again.

Birmingham, Ala., June 8.—Judge Frank C. Randolph, who defaulted for about $25,000 while serving as probate judge of Montgomery county 11 years ago and fled to South America, is in Washington and will, it is said, shortly return to Alabama. Indictments are pending against him. Recently his shortages with the state and county were settled.

Judge Randolph landed in New York a few days ago, and his baggage reached Montgomery Sunday. It was learned that he stopped off in Washington to confer with his attorney, ex-Secretary of the Navy Herbert.

Soon after reaching South America Randolph killed a wealthy German in Colombia in a dispute over some land. He was sentenced to death, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. After spending nine years in a dungeon influential Americans got a pardon for him. He is a member of one of the most prominent families in the South, and was for years a political leader in Alabama.

HARRY SCOTT

TO GAIN OVER TWO MONTHS BY GOOD BEHAVIOR.

Warden Hershey Replies To a Question Wired By The Advocate—An Effort For Pardon.

There has been considerable discussion among the friends of Harry P. Scott as to the exact length of time he will have to be imprisoned as a result of the confirmation by the United States Court of Appeals of the District Court's sentence of thirteen months. Several lawyers have expressed an opinion, but no definite statement has been obtained up to the present time. Mr. Scott himself said not long ago that he did not know.

Wednesday afternoon The Advocate sent this telegram to Warden Hershey, of the Ohio Penitentiary:

"How much time can a thirteen months prisoner gain by good behavior? A prompt answer will be appreciated."

Mr. Hershey promptly wired back the following answer:

"He will gain two months and eighty-four days."

This means that Harry P. Scott, unless President Roosevelt pardons him, will be required to serve a term of ten months and twelve days in prison. It is not as yet known how soon Mr. Scott will have to surrender himself, but the impression prevails that he will have about 30 days. In the meantime, it is understood that his friends will exert every influence to bring the case to the attention of the president with the hope of securing executive clemency.

THE LIBERTY BELL.

St. Louis, June 8.—Cracked, scarred and rusted, despite the care, the Liberty Bell, that rang for freedom from the belfry of Independence Hall in Philadelphia in 1776, arrived in St. Louis at 9 o'clock today.

TRAIN

On Rio Grande Held Up by Robbers

WHO BLEW OPEN THE SAFE IN EXPRESS CAR

Brakeman Was Shot While Conductor Narrowly Escaped

ONLY A SMALL AMOUNT STOLEN

Say the Officials of Express Company—Westbound Flyer Flagged Near Grand Junction.

Denver, Colo., June 8.—The westbound Denver and Rio Grande train which left here Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, was held up near Palisade, Colo., a station just east of Grand Junction, at a early hour this morning. Brakeman Shellenberger is seriously wounded as the result of a bullet from the gun of one of the holdup men, and the conductor had his lantern shot from his hand.

The robbers flagged the train about two miles from the station and when the trainmen went forward to learn the trouble they were confronted by two masked men. After marching the conductor back to the train they detached the engine and express car from the coaches and blew open the safe, after running the locomotive and car some distance up the track. The express officials are unable to say what amount was obtained, but they claim it was small.

WAY BACK IN '40

Dawson McQueen Began Voting the Democratic Ticket and Has Voted Straight Ticket Ever Since.

Mr. Dawson McQueen, one of the oldest and most substantial residents of Fallstury township, this county, was in the city on Wednesday, and made The Advocate a friendly visit. Mr. McQueen although upwards of 86 years of age, is still hale and hearty, and looks as young as most men of 60. He is a son of the late Minor McQueen of Fallstury township. When only 3 years old he removed to Fallstury township, Jackson county, where he has resided ever since, a period of over 77 years, respected and beloved by all who know him. He cast his first vote for the Democratic ticket in 1846, and has voted the straight ticket ever since. He has taken The Advocate for a period of over sixty years, and says he expects to take it until he passes away. He also said that he hoped to live long enough to vote at another presidential election, although he looks as though he is good for several presidential elections yet.

SNORED IN CHURCH

But the Magistrate Said It Was Natural, Discharging Wilson.

New York, June 8.—Harry Wilson, aged 18, who came from Chicago, via a prisoner before Magistrate Crane, for sleeping under the train in front of St. John's church, corner of Sixth avenue and Washington place. The section in court said: "This man was asleep in the church last night." The magistrate interrupted. "I see no harm in that." "But," the section added, "he snored." "That is a God-given privilege, sir, to snore. I have no jurisdiction to interfere with human nature." The boy said he was homeless. "There is no good reason why this boy should suffer. He is discharged. I will find a position for him."

DIAMONDS

Kept In an Old Shoe Were Lost and Found In the Garbage Can.

Chicago, Ill., June 8.—Diamonds valued at $4,000, which were kept in an old shoe, were lost and found by the owner, Mrs. George Frank, 1885 Diversey boulevard, yesterday.

Shortly after 12 o'clock Mrs. Frank sought her diamonds, which are said to have been kept in the shoe. They were missing and she notified the police of the Sheffield Avenue Station.

Several detectives were detailed on the case, but before they had reached the house the diamonds are said to have been found in a garbage can in the rear of the Frank flat. While the diamonds were missing the servants searched every nook in the flat to find them.

Finally, it is said, they were found in the garbage can by one of the servants, who returned them to her mistress.

IN TENDERLOIN

Society Girl and Two Young Men, Arguing About a Kiss, Were Arrested.

Chicago, June 8.—Hiding her identity under an assumed name, and disguised to prevent recognition, a young woman who declared she was Miss Maude Chandler, but who is a well-known society belle living on Prairie avenue, near Thirty-first street, it is said, was arraigned before Justice Prindiville and fined for summing.

Arrested with her were two young men who gave their names as E. A. Flowers and Mark Marrow. They did not appear in court to answer the charges.

As the policeman approached they heard the two men arguing which should kiss the girl. She kissed Marrow and the officers placed her under arrest.

"Let her go," demanded Marrow. "You had better go on or we'll arrest you too," said the policeman.

"Let her go or I'll thrash you," said Marrow, and suiting the action to the word he attempted to strike the policeman.

The affair occurred in the heart of the tenderloin, to visit which has become the fad of parties living in the respectable sections.

TODAY

Martial Law Rules at Cripple Creek

GEN. BELL IS IN COMMAND OF THE TROOPS

Deportation of Miners to be Daily Occurrence

TWO MEN CLAIM TO BE CORONER

Twenty-four Union Miners Exiled Since the Rioting Began Reached Denver at Midnight.

Victor, Colo., June 8.—The Cripple Creek district was officially put under martial law early today. Adjutant General Sherman M. Bell arrived at 1:45 o'clock in a special train from Denver, accompanied by five officers. He at once assumed command and caused the posting of a proclamation in various parts of the district.

The proclamation states that because of a class of lawless men and the fact that murder and rioting have taken place and because lives and property are in constant danger, it is considered expedient to resume martial law. The paper is signed by Acting Governor Warren A. Haggott, in the absence of Governor Peabody, who started from St. Louis for home last night.

The first movement of General Bell was to begin a personal investigation of the report that had been circulated all night that the miners were gathering in force at a stronghold in the hills near Victor. General Bell, with a squad of troops, the sheriff of the county and leaders of the mine owners' association started on a trip down the railway line to the alleged rendezvous of the enemy today.

Deportations will be of daily occurrence, it is announced, until every member of the Western Federation of Miners is sent into exile.

Coroner James Dorin, of Victor, who resigned under pressure only after a noose had been placed about his neck by a committee from the Mine Owners' association, declared that he had recalled his resignation because force was used and proposed to hold an inquest with a jury he appointed two days ago. Coroner R. A. Hall, who was named to succeed Dorin, has also selected a jury and proposes to hold an inquest. It is believed that Dorin will be taken out and tarred and feathered if he persists in his determination to remain in office.

DEPORTED MEN AT DENVER.

Denver, Colo., June 8.—The 24 deported union miners from the Cripple Creek district exiled since the serious riots in that section arrived in Denver about midnight on a special train over the Denver and Rio Grande. In the rear of the car stood nine guards armed with shotguns and army rifles, who had been deputized to conduct them to Denver from the gold camp. The miners were unarmed. Nearly all were penniless. The men were met by about forty of the delegates to the convention of the Western Federation of Miners and were taken to a restaurant. The miners declare that the Cripple Creek district is no longer safe for union men.

MOROCCO INCIDENT.

Madrid, June 8.—Premier Maura in the course of an interview regarding the situation in Morocco incident to the abduction of ten Perdicaries and his stepson, today made this enigmatic remark: "I ignore the real purpose of the Yankee fleet at Targier." The remark indicated that the premier believes the report that America wishes to obtain a port in Morocco.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—The newspaper Novoye Vremya prints an editorial today which is an improvement in the education of the Russian masses.

"WHAT'S BRED IN THE BONE WILL OUT IN THE FLESH"

Is true of mankind as well as lower animals. We do not expect blooded stock from common sires, physical giants from dwarfs and midgets, nor well-developed, robust children from tainted ancestors and sickly parents. It is contrary to the laws of nature and heredity, which are inviolable, unchangeable and fixed.

Children not only inherit the features, form and disposition of their parents, but the mental and physical qualities, infirmities and diseases as well. That certain diseases are transmitted from parents to children, are bred in the bone and handed down from one generation to another, can not be denied, for we see evidences of it every where and every day.

SCROFULA, a disease almost as fatal as Consumption, is a disease of the blood, is bred in the bone and will out in the flesh in the form of glandular swellings, deep abscesses and sores, boils and eruptions. It affects the eyes and ears, weakens the digestion and destroys the red corpuscles and solids of the blood, resulting in emaciation, stunted growth and poorly nourished bodies.

RHEUMATISM is handed down from gouty ancestors and rheumatic parents. The acid poisons in the blood that cause the sharp, shooting pains in muscles and joints have been there may be from birth, and exposure to bad weather, night air, or cold, easterly winds only hastens the attack by exciting the acid blood. The blood must be purified and the poisons filtered out of the system in order to get relief from this painful disease.

CATARRH is something more than a cold in the head; the poison extends into the Throat and Lungs, attacks the Stomach, Kidneys and Bladder, and every part of the system. We inherit a predisposition or tendency to Catarrh, just like other blood diseases; it is bred in the bone and can not be reached with sprays and salves, but requires constitutional treatment and a thorough cleansing of the disease-tainted blood.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON is responsible for more suffering than all other diseases combined, and none is so surely transmitted from parent to child. Fearful ulcers and sores and disgusting skin eruptions often break out in infancy, and those whose blood is tainted with this awful poison are handicapped from birth, and unless the poison is eradicated carry the taint through life.

CANCEROUS ULCERS and old sores seem to pursue some families through generations, and in spite of washes, salves and ointments, continue to spread and grow because the taint is in the blood; is bred in the bone and grounded in the flesh.

Nothing but a real blood remedy like S. S. S. can reach these deeply rooted, inborn diseases. It goes to the fountain source of the trouble, uproots the old taint, drives out the poisons that have been lurking in the blood for years, and tones up the weakly constitution. S. S. S. reaches diseases of this character that no other medicine does or can. It has been tested in thousands of cases during the nearly fifty years of its existence, and its reputation as a cure for chronic blood troubles is firmly established.

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and suited to old and young and persons of delicate constitution. If you have inherited a predisposition or tendency to some family taint, the sooner you begin a course of S. S. S. the quicker and more certain the cure. The disease may develop in childhood or later on in life, but is sure to make its appearance sometime, "for what is bred in the bone will out in the flesh," as sure as you live.

Our physicians make diseases of the blood and skin a special study. Write us all about your case, and medical advice or any special information desired will cost you nothing.

CARDINAL SATOLLI'S VISIT.

To See the World's Fair—The Maloney Wedding.

One of the most impressive ecclesiastical functions ever held in the United States was the visitation to the cardinalate in January, 1896, of Mgr. Satolli, titular a bishop of Lepanto, and at the time papal delegate to the United States. The scarlet berretta was awarded him by Pope Leo XIII. in recognition of his services in bringing about peaceable settlement of many controversies which for some years had been agitating the Roman Catholic church in the United States. And now Cardinal Satolli is to visit the world's fair at St. Louis, where the Vatican has sent a priceless exhibit, and to renew his acquaintance with the clergy and laity of his church in America. Besides visiting many of the higher ecclesiastics of the Roman Catholic church, Cardinal Satolli will be the guest of a wealthy Philadelphia layman who has bestowed many gifts upon the church, the cardinal represents, and he will participate in the marriage of his friend's daughter.

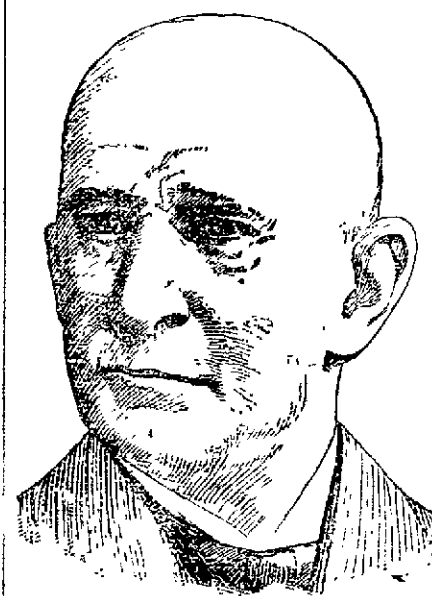

CARDINAL SATOLLI.

This ceremony will take place on June 22 and will be notable in many ways. The bride is Margaret Maloney, daughter of Martin Maloney, the rich Philadelphia man who was made a marquis of the holy Roman empire by Leo XIII. The wedding will take place at Spring Lake, N. J., in the costly memorial chapel erected there by Mr. Maloney, and besides Cardinal Satolli it is expected that Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, Bishop McPhaul of New Jersey and other dignitaries will participate in the ceremony.

ROCKEFELLER'S AMBITION.

Money King May One Day Find No More Trusts to Conquer.

John D. Rockefeller may feel some day like Alexander the Great, who sighed because there were no more worlds to conquer. He is now said to have acquired control of the United States Steel corporation, which is easily big enough to be a little sister to the great Standard Oil company. Mr. Rockefeller sustains paternal relations to so many trusts that it is hard to pick out one that is not in some way a member of his financial family. The addition of the steel trust to the various others bearing the Rockefeller coat of arms and trademark should prove a source of increased strength and prestige to the Rockefeller name.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

as one to conjure with and enable the head of the family to be more than ever a crowned prince if not actually a crowned head in the financial world.

If Mr. Rockefeller goes on adding trusts to his present large family he will have more trouble than ever in spending the $20,000,000 or so which his income every year is now said to average.

Not long ago the multimillionaire organized a money giving bureau through which to dispose of his enormous outgoes for charitable, educational and religious purposes. To disburse the many millions a year which Mr. Rockefeller gives away is quite a business in itself, and he believes in its being conducted on the basis of any other successful and extensive business that waste may be prevented.

Though he gives so much, the great philanthropist does not like to have his generosity imposed upon. One time when he was stopping over Sunday it was reported he would attend the services of a certain colored congregation of the Baptist persuasion, which is Mr. Rockefeller's own faith. A deputation of the church officers waited upon him and ascertained his favorite hymns; the elders escorted him to the best pew. Great were the hopes that the Standard Oil magnate might drop something in the plate which would raise the church debt. Imagine the dismay of the colored brethren when Mr. Rockefeller got up and left the church before the collection was taken.

SIDE LIGHTS ON QUAY

Pennsylvania Senator's Method of Outwitting Reporters.

AN INSTANCE OF HIS BRAVERY.

How His Presence of Mind Stopped a Panic in the Civil War—The Senator's Mythical Namesake—An Experience With a Coach Driver in the Adirondacks.

The late Senator Matthew S. Quay's ability to give newspapers much the slip is shown by the following incident, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

Senator Quay reached the Stratford House in Philadelphia at 7 p. m. one night. His arrival quickly became known to the newspaper men, who planned to "bottle" him, to the end that he might not escape them, as he had frequently done before. A bold dozen reporters stood watch at the Broad street entrance to the hotel, two others from the Press and Times standing guard at the Walnut street exit. All agreed that the senator was bottled sure. An hour passed, and the Press man fumbled in his vest pocket for a cigar, but could find none. The Times man also fumbled with a like result. The night was cold and the vigil tiresome. A smoke, they agreed, would greatly relieve the tediousness of the watch. They finally decided that it would be safe to leave their post long enough to cross Broad street and "light up" at the Bellevue. They hurriedly crossed and returned, puffing contentedly, to renew the watch.

Another hour passed. Then a Pittsburgh correspondent walked up to the group of writers at the Broad street entrance. "What are you fellows doing here?" was his greeting. "Waiting for Quay. Got him bottled up," was the reply. Their confidence, however, gave way to chagrin when told that Quay had left the hotel by the Walnut street door. The group as one man hastened to the watchers at that point to demand an accounting. The latter scoffed. "Quay gone; impossible!" But the truth could not be suppressed. The guilty pair owned up to a dereliction of two minutes' duration. Quay had slipped out in those two minutes. A long and fruitless search for the senator then ensued. At 11 p. m. the "old man" returned to the hotel. The reporters were invited to his room, where Quay stretched both arms above his head and yawned. "Oh, I'm so tired!" That was the extent of the interview. Then it was that a reporter briefly described the offense of the two faithless watchers, closing by saying:

"How would you punish such a delinquency, senator?" There was a merry light in Quay's eyes as he answered: "In the army they shoot a sentinel who deserts his post."

"A great many persons do not know that Senator Quay won a deserved reputation for bravery in the civil war," said Dr. Edward Bedloe at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel to the New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "It was in the charge upon Marye's heights, where Quay was a volunteer aid-de-camp. When an effort was made to rally the breaking line he noticed a backward movement among the men.

"D— it, boys," he cried, "what are you dodging for? If I can sit on my horse and the bullets go over my head, they certainly can't hit you!" His presence of mind stopped the panic."

Quay was once riding from Cleveland to Toledo on a train to the rear of which were hitched two immigrant cars, says the New York Press. At 9 o'clock in the evening a man entered the Pullman car where the senator sat and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, a child has just been born in one of the immigrant cars. It's a boy, and, though we are in Ohio, I am a Pennsylvanian. As Senator Quay is on the train, it is proposed to name the baby Quay Cobeleski and that we ah clip in and raise a purse for him."

They chipped. Quay contributed $5, saying he was proud of the honor. The man passed on into the next car with $35. An hour later it was learned that no child had been born on the train and that the fellow had raised $80 and dropped off at a way station.

Mr. Quay and a shrewd Adirondack native once figured in the following incident, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. When the senator went to the Adirondacks some time ago to prepare for the return home of his family, he rode up the mountain in a coach that was distressingly tardy and which was following after another that, if possible, was even slower. He chafed for a time at the pace and then hit upon a plan he thought would serve to speed both teams. He leaned over to the driver and offered a dollar if the latter would get ahead of the team in front.

The driver smilingly agreed and then raised his voice to say: "Hey, I say, Ball! Ball! Turn yer rig to the side of the road, will yer? There's a guy here says he'll give me a dollar if I pass ye."

British Dogs For Far Eastern War. Major Richardson, the well known dog owner at Carnoustie, in Forfarshire, has been invited by the Russian government to "let loose the dogs of war" in the most humane sense, says Country Life. Major Richardson has made a specialty of training his dogs for ambulance work and the like, and the Russian government has applied to their trainer to know how many dogs he can supply for immediate service in the far east.

FINNISH EXILES.

An Interesting Feature of Immigration to America.

One of the most interesting features of American immigration is the large increase of Finns arriving on these shores in recent years because of oppression at home by Russia. In 1898 the number of Finn immigrants to America was less than 3,000. In 1899, when the czar issued the fatal decree depriving the people of Finland of their constitutional liberty, the number increased to 12,000, in 1900 to 25,000 and in 1903 to 50,000. Since 1898 more than 150,000 Finns have come to the United States, and there are now over 200,000 Finns under the American flag. In 1898 Finland's population was 2,000,000, so that 10 per cent of all Finland's inhabitants in the year previous to the czar's decree are in the United States today. As many more have sought freedom in other countries.

According to a writer in Everybody's Magazine, these exiles were the flower of their nation. They have found employment here in varied industries. A few are goldsmiths and silversmiths; many are "bridgemen" in steel construction work. In Michigan, which has the largest colony of them, they work in the iron and copper mines. There are 1,000 who are fishermen and miners in Alaska. Some are farmers in the middle west.

In New York, Jersey City, Hoboken, Brooklyn and Newark there are fully 15,000 Finns. Of these nearly all the women—in the peasant class, of course—are in domestic service, while the majority of the men are carpenters, ironworkers and bridge and house builders.

A Unique Coin.

A four dollar gold coin, probably the only one of its kind in existence, is on exhibition at the Germania National bank in Milwaukee. It belongs to Dr. Charles J. Lange and is valued by the bank officials at $200, although this is only approximate. The piece of gold is of the same diameter as a five dollar gold piece, but thinner. On its face is the well known "Liberty head," without the cap, however. Around this are thirteen stars interspersed with the letters "G O S S T C T Grams." The exact meaning of these letters none of the bank officials has ascertained. On the reverse of the coin is a five pointed star, into which is cut the inscription "One stella—400 cents." Around it are the words "E Pluribus Unum. Deo Est Gloria," and around these, forming the rim of this side of the coin, are the words, "United States of America. Four Dollars." About fifteen years ago this coin was sent to Washington by the Merchants' Exchange bank of Milwaukee, according to the Sentinel of that city, but the only information obtained was that the coin is genuine.

Balloons and Rifle Balls.

Some interesting experiments have just been conducted at Bienne, France, for testing the practical utility of captive military balloons against infantry or machine gun fire. The Paris correspondent of the Newcastle Chronicle states that at a height of 800 yards a few volleys sufficed to shatter the balloon, the range, it should be stated, being known in advance. At an unknown altitude varying from 1,100 to 2,600 yards no fewer than twenty-two trial shots were needed to fix the range. It was only the sixty-fourth volley that hit the balloon, without, however, doing it any apparent damage. The experiments are regarded as showing that rifle fire is not very effective, even against captive balloons, at uncertain ranges and still less so against balloons that are not captive.

Declining Birth Rate.

The continued decline in the birth rate in England has begun to arouse apprehension of the nation's future. In 1860 the birth rate was 35.2 per 1,000. By 1900 it had fallen to 29.2 and by 1901 to 28.5.

Attention was called to the matter in the registrar general's last annual report, issued in June, 1903, which pointed out that the birth rate was then the lowest on record, while infant mortality was startlingly high. Dr. Shardwell in a recent lecture at Lion college showed that the decline especially pertained to industrial centers. In England generally it is among the middle classes that the birth rate shows the most serious decline. In Australia the working classes are the pioneers of restricted families.

Progress of Electricity.

Fifteen years ago there were perhaps 100 electric cars in the whole world. Today they are in all parts of the globe. Even Seoul, the capital of Korea, has an electric railway built by an American.

Fifteen years ago a 200 horsepower generator was thought to be a monster, but today a 10,000 horsepower generator is not big enough to attract any unusual attention.

Fifteen years ago electricity was thought to be almost as much of a fad as it was a business. It employed few men. Today in one plant alone there are 12,000 people employed, and three out of every four are skilled workmen.

Death and Number Thirteen.

Pawtucket has four undertaking establishments, each of which is No. 13 upon its street. One of the "funeral parlors" is conducted by a man named Berry, which, if not spelled the same way, sounds exactly like "bury." In one of these establishments a young man of the name of Coffin secured a position some years ago. His first work was in connection with thirteen victims of a sleighing party run into by a train while crossing the railroad track near the city. And yet there are some people, otherwise of sound sense, who say there is nothing fatal in the number thirteen.—Providence Journal.

DON'T DESPAIR DYSPEPSIA CAN BE CURED

From Mr. Edward H. Harker, Foreman of The Albert Pack Lumber Co., Cleveland, Ohio.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I have been a sufferer for years from dyspepsia and indigestion. I got nervous and weak and run down in flesh and was unable to attend to my work at times. I would suffer from gas in my stomach until I thought every moment was my last. I could not draw a full breath, everything I ate would distress me, my stomach would get sour and ferment. I had a pressure in my chest. I would get drowsy, have chills and sweat, and many symptoms I cannot describe. I was advised to try Vetter's Dyspepsia Remedy, and I am thankful I did, for it cured me entirely. I can eat anything now without having any distress or troubles. I had before using the Remedy. I give this statement for the benefit of other sufferers. Edward Harker, 17, Cleveland Street.

Insanity,
Death or Health?
No. 2907 Locust Street,
St. Louis, Mo., March 29, 1902.
I was a victim of sleeplessness and extreme nervousness for eighteen months, unable to get a proper night's rest and feeling tired and worn out continually. I was easily irritated and hysterical at the slightest provocation, but Wine of Cardui gave me great relief. Within a week after I began using it I had my first real good night's rest that I had had for months. My appetite was soon restored, my general system toned up and nervousness became a thing of the past.
I am so pleased to acknowledge the great curative merit of your health giving medicine and gladly endorse it.
Mrs. Harriet O. Best

WINE OF CARDUI
We want to call your attention to the complete and immediate relief Mrs. Best secured by taking Wine of Cardui. Within a week after she began taking Wine of Cardui, Mrs. Best had her first good night's rest for eighteen months. Her restlessness was caused by nervousness and Wine of Cardui, as the best menstrual regulator, has no superior in the world as a medicine to soothe a woman's nerves. Nervousness and hysteria are warnings of the approach of insanity and if relief is not secured the end can only be the asylum or the grave. With such an outlook as this before her, no suffering woman can reasonably refuse to give Wine of Cardui a trial. It brings a cure that thousands of women have sought for in vain. Will you secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today and start treatment?

The fervent admiration of Hamilton and the disparagement of Jefferson by Republican newspapers and orators is a significant sign. Hamilton was the most pronounced monarchist of his generation. He wanted a senate elected for life, and a permanent president and a nobility.

Postmaster General Payne denies the story that he feels well enough to undertake the duties of the Republican National chairmanship during the coming campaign, and states that he will not even retain the vice chairmanship. This again leaves the place open to Secretary Cortelyou, the Presidents' choice, with the exception that the opposition of some of the practical politicians is still to be reckoned with.

A Serious Question.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg states that alarming reports are current there that the Trans-Siberian railway has reached the limit of its capacity in transporting supplies for the feeding of the Russian army already in Manchuria. It is even feared that it will prove impossible to prosecute the campaign successfully, or with a sufficient army until the railroad is made a double-tracked one beyond Lake Baikal.

There is probably good ground for these fears. It has long been evident that the railway was insufficient for the purposes of the rapid reinforcement of the Russian army in Manchuria. Since the war began four months ago it is doubtful if 100,000 men have traversed the 5,000 miles from Russia to Manchuria over this road. Indeed, it is said that many thousands of troops are scattered along the road awaiting the transportation and supplies necessary to take them to the front. The equipment of the railway is, however, probably fully occupied in carrying forward to the army already in Manchuria the food needed to keep it from starving, and the ammunition and artillery which are required for its preservation.

This question of transportation and supplies is a most serious one for General Kuropatkin, much more so than it is for the Japanese, whose command of the sea enables them to land reinforcements and supplies from Japan at will, and at points close to their armies in the field. Nevertheless, they are not yet ready to strike at Kuropatkin, and it may be judged from this why the latter has thus far shown no disposition to move in force against them.

Mr. Hearst's Attitude.

(Cincinnati Post.)

William R. Hearst is out in another interview, in which he denies that he proposes to withdraw from his attempt to capture the Democratic presidential nomination. In addition he makes this rather equivocal utterance: "I expect now, as fully as ever I have expected, that I will be the nominee of the convention." This may be a true expression of Mr. Hearst's sentiments, and at the same time not evidence any real confidence on his part that his candidacy will be successful. Certainly there is no evidence anywhere now, nor has there been at any time, as to his nomination being among the probabilities.

In every great state east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio in which Mr. Hearst has endeavored to secure the delegates to St. Louis he has been defeated, and in all the territory within that range he has captured only the few delegates from Rhode Island. In the South he has also failed to about the same extent, his latest reverse being reported from Texas. In that State, notwithstanding that he has in some way enlisted the support of so popular a man as ex-Governor Hogg, his canvass for delegates appears to be destined to failure. In the 150 counties where delegates have thus far been chosen Mr. Hearst has carried only 10, while 56 counties have instructed for Judge Parker. In the remaining 34 counties no instructions were given, but it is said that most of their delegates to the State convention are Parker men.

Mr. Hearst declares that he is a loyal Democrat, and will not have to be bribed to support the party's National candidates and platform, thereby intending to answer the charge that he intended to bolt if his views were not carried into effect by the National convention. This is a proper attitude, and one which will win him more friends in the Democratic party than his rather peculiar attempts to secure its presidential nomination.

DEAF MUTES

And Their Friends in Newark Will Be Interested in the Announcement Made Below.

A "combined service" in the interests of church work among deaf-mutes and their children will be held at Trinity church, Newark, on Sunday, June 12, at 7 o'clock in the evening. The rector, the Rev. G. W. Van Fossen, extends a cordial invitation to the "silent folk" and their hearing friends of the city and neighborhood, to worship with his congregation. With him will be associated the Rev. Austin W. Mann, of Cleveland, who will interpret as the service proceeds orally. He will also interpret the writer's sermon on church work among a class of the community, who are out of reach of the voice. The sermon will also elucidate the principles of universal sign language, which is not the exclusive property of deaf-mutes. The Rev. Mr. Mann is the founder of the Mid-Western Deaf-Mute Mission of the Episcopal church, and has labored assiduously for more than thirty years. He was the first deaf-mute ordained west of the Alleghenies. The Rev. Mr. Van Fossen requests readers of this notice, who have deaf-mute friends, to show it to them, and neighboring papers to copy it.

Lord Brooke, an Englishman, 22 years of age, and quite marriageable, is about to pay a visit to this country. He is a son of the countess of Warwick, who, as Lady Brooke, was a fellow guest at Tranby Croft with the Prince of Wales (now King Edward) when the famous bacarat scandal convulsed all England. It was she who told of the trouble to outsiders, this earning her nickname of "the babbling Brooke."

GILBERT HOOVER CONTRACTOR

FORMER GRANVILLE MAN BURIED AT COLUMBUS.

Builder of C. & V. Soldier, Lodge-man, and Prominent Citizen—Was Ill Several Months.

Columbus, O., June 3.—The funeral of Gilbert Hoover, formerly of Granville, Licking county, took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. From the family residence, 71 Lexington avenue, Rev. B. L. McElroy officiating. Burial was made at Green Lawn. The pallbearers were: Charles O. Tracey, James M. Loren, George W. Sinks, John G. Deshler, Dr. T. C. Hoover and F. F. Donnet.

After suffering for months, Gilbert C. Hoover died just as the sun rose Sunday morning. Ailing since last September, in January Mr. Hoover contracted typhoid fever.

There were few men in Columbus who were better known than Gilbert Hoover, and few who were held in higher esteem. Born in Granville, Mr. Hoover came to Columbus for his business career. Success attended his efforts in a generous measure and his operations were extensive. His work was largely that of a railroad contractor. He constructed the Columbus, Sandusky & Hocking railroad, being also one of the directors as well as treasurer of the line after it was put into operation. He was also identified with the construction of the Columbus & Cincinnati Midland, the Hocking Valley, the Toledo & Ohio Central extension and other railroads.

Mr. Hoover took an interest in natural gas projects when the territory about Columbus first aroused interest, and from his activity he was chosen as a director of the Central Ohio Natural Gas and Fuel company, which office he held at the time of his death. He was also a director in the People's Building and Loan association. During the last year Mr. Hoover held the position of president of the Columbus Beach association, formed by Columbus people who take their summer outings at Indian River, Mich. He had been identified with this organization for years.

Membership in both the Masonic order and the Odd Fellows was held by the deceased, and some years ago he served a term in the city council, his only position of public trust.

While he rarely spoke of it, Mr. Hoover has a record of service in the Civil War of which he might well be proud.

There are left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father, a widow and one son, the latter being Fred M. Hoover, like his father, a contractor. Mrs. Hoover was Miss Emma A. Maynard, of the family of coal operators so well known in Ohio. Two brothers also survive the deceased, S. L. Hoover and George Hoover, the latter of Bucyrus, and also a sister, Mrs. James Mazurine of Uhrichsville.

DENISON

OUTCLASSED CINCINNATI UNIVERSITY AND WON EASILY.

Edmiston Started To Pitch But Was Not Needed and Wiley Was Given a Chance.

The Denison University baseball team simply outplayed Cincinnati at Granville Tuesday and won easily by a score of 11 to 0. Edmiston, the crack south paw, started to twirl for the Baptists, but after his team batted Schaefer out of the box in the fourth, he was sent to left field to save him for either the Kanyon or Ohio State game later in the week. During the entire game Edmiston batted like a fiend, getting two slashing two-baggers, a three-bagger and a single.

Wiley, a sub on the Denison team, took Edmiston's place in the box and kept up the pace for him. Bushelman replaced Schaefer and did much better work. The entire Denison team played a great game all round, not an error marring their work in the field. Roberts' throwing to second was a feature of the visitors' play. The score:

Professor George Herbert Palmer of Harvard College, says that the peculiar habit of rigid, logical reasoning is contracted very early and in illustration he tells the following story: "A little boy and girl of my acquaintance were tucked up snug in bed when their mother heard them talking. 'I wonder what we're hear for?' asked the little boy. 'The girl remembered the lessons that had been taught her, and replied sweetly, 'We are here to help others.' The little boy sniffed. 'Then what are the others here for?' he asked."

Mrs. George Shile, McClure, Ohio, R. F. D. No. 1, says: "I was so nervous and broken down that I could not do my work. I doctored with two of our home doctors, and they said I had heart trouble. I had spells with my heart when I would be so bad that I would faint away. I received a sample bottle of Zoa Phora, which I took according to directions, and thought it was just what I needed, so I threw the doctor's medicine away and got a large bottle of Zoa Phora. It helped me so much that I bought two more bottles, and now I am well and strong. I do not have the spells with my heart since I took Zoa Phora and I am regular now, where before I took Zoa Phora I was very irregular and had severe pain at monthly periods. FARMERS

ARE NOT REQUIRED TO PAY LICENSE FEE

To Sell Their Produce In Newark—John P. Lamb Corrects An Erroneous Impression.

In an interview with the members of the board of public service Wednesday, Mr. John P. Lamb, president of the board, speaking for his colleagues said:

"I wish you would state that for some reason an erroneous impression has gone abroad throughout the county in regard to the rights of farmers and others to sell their produce in Newark. This impression seems to be that a license fee is required to peddle produce about the town. Now, this is all wrong. Any farmer in Licking county can bring produce raised by him, into Newark and sell it wherever he pleases and under whatever conditions he may make for himself, without hindrance or the payment of any fee to anyone.

"Hucksters, and by that I mean those who buy produce, must pay a fee to peddle it, but this does not apply to any farmer, manufacturer or other person who wants to sell anything he raises or manufactures."

OLD BALCONY

TRYSTING PLACE OF THE YOUNG PEOPLE YEARS AGO

When Newark Had But One Public Hall Has Just Been Torn Away From City Building.

A gang of workmen has been engaged in tearing away the old balcony on the second story of the old Market House building, facing on North Fourth street. The balcony was a light, but strong structure of iron girders, with a wooden floor, and was erected over fifty years ago. Today the balcony is gone, and only a pile of debris composed of broken pieces of iron and rotten pieces of wood are left of it. Such would be the mere ruins announcement of the removal of this old time landmark. Only a lot of rusty old iron and rotting boards, and yet what a world of memories that old balcony evokes in its demolition. To the middle aged and gray-haired citizens of Newark today what tender memories do the remains of that old balcony evoke of thirty and forty years ago. In the palmy days of the old City Hall building its first public hall was long before the Auditorium was dreamed of—long before the Music Hall was built—long before the old Jones Opera House was thought of. The old City Hall was used not only for shows and entertainments of all sorts, but for suppers and dances and festive occasions of all kinds. The balcony just removed, was the trysting place of the young people of that day. There, under the stars, and in the silence, vows were spoken, and pledges exchanged that the world knew not of, but the years have rolled by. Bright eyes that have flashed under the stars on the old balcony have closed on earth forever, and sweet voices that thrilled every pulse have ceased to vibrate on earth, and the names of many who sat on the balcony in the moonlight have long been engraved on the mossy marble. A few are left, aged and bent and gray. The old balcony is in ruins, and like it, they soon shall pass away.

NEWARK ELKS

Put the Antlers on Three Well-Known Newark Men—Committee Arranging For Buckeye Lake Outing.

Newark Lodge, No. 391, B. P. O. E., held a well attended and successful meeting in their elegant headquarters on Tuesday night. In addition to the usual routine of business, several applicants were elected to membership; various committees reported favorably on several more and several new applications for membership were filed.

The committee on attending the Elks' National Reunion at Cincinnati reported progress, and Newark lodge will be largely represented at the big meeting.

A committee was also appointed with W. D. Fulton as chairman to make arrangements for holding a social outing and picnic for the members of the lodge at Buckeye Lake in the near future.

ADDRESS

A. SCHANTZ, G. & P. T. M., Detroit, Mich.

A Surgical Case

[Original.]

One morning a man entered the office of a rising young oculist in St. Petersburg.

"Doctor," he said, "I desire you to operate on one of my eyes. You see that while my right eye is blue the iris of the left is completely covered by a white streak. This is a blemish which I would like to have removed."

"That is impossible," said the doctor.

"Not at all," replied the patient. "I am a member of the medical profession, and I consider it a practicable operation."

"Operation? What operation?"

"One that has never been performed and which thus far is simply in my own brain. Naturally I have desired to get rid of the blemish, so far as cosmetics (appearances) are concerned, and have laid a plan for a remedy. I have with me the instruments for the purpose."

He produced a little bundle of fine cambric needles and a vial.

"My idea is to prick the cornea with these needles and fill the minute cavities with India ink of a color similar to that of the pupil of my right eye."

"But—"

"Doctor, I am in a great hurry. Will you do as I desire or compel me to operate on myself?"

The patient spoke eagerly, and the oculist was unable to understand the cause of his haste; but, being a young man, he was readily captivated by a new idea and acquiesced.

"Sit down there," he said, referring to his operating chair, and, filling a dropper with a solution of cocaine, he held up the eyelid and put two drops on the iris. This was to neutralize pain and keep the eye steady.

"Make haste, doctor," said the patient impatiently.

"Make haste—in an operation that has never been performed before and in which the slightest overdriving of the needles may cause the loss of the eye!"

"What use is sight without life? Hurry, I say!"

The oculist was puzzled. Was the man insane? He was tempted to throw up the operation, but he had become intensely interested in trying it and seeing what the result would be.

With the needles he picked carefully all over the surface of the eye affected and when he had finished took up the vial the patient had brought.

"Are you sure the color is right?" he asked. "Remember, the ink cannot be removed."

"Perfectly sure," said the other. "I have prepared it myself."

The ink was applied, and after a few moments, during which the operator critically examined the eye to see that he had left no part uncovered, he exclaimed:

"Bravo! Your eyes are exactly alike."

"Your fee?" said the patient, jumping from the chair.

"Nothing. It would not be professional to charge a brother practitioner. Besides, your idea and the experience I have had will be worth many fees to me in other similar cases."

There was a loud ring at the office bell.

"Doctor," said the patient, paling, "you will not betray a brother physician?"

Before the oculist could reply there were steps on the stairway, and several police stepped into the operating room.

"A man whom we are looking for has been traced here," said one of them; then, turning to the doctor, "You are the oculist?"

"I am."

"Then this other must be the man we are after." And, taking a paper from his pocket, he read, pausing to examine the man from time to time:

"Konstantin Proker. Twenty-eight years old. Five feet ten inches high. Light yellow hair. Beard a darker shade of same color. Right eye blue, left eye white."

Looking at the eyes, he uttered an exclamation of disappointment. The patient cast an appealing glance at the oculist.

"Well," said the latter, "what does this mean?"

"This man corresponds to the description, the eyes excepted, of a desperate nihilist whose complicity with a disablist plot has just been discovered. One eye should be white."

"But they are both blue."

"So I see."

"Those who directed you here doubtless saw the similarity of personal appearance, but did not notice the eyes. There are plenty of men five feet ten with yellow beards, but not one in thousands of different colored eyes."

"But," stammered the policeman, "he might have come here to get his eyes made the same color."

His statement was received with a smile by the doctor and laughter by the other policemen.

"Come, come, my friend," said the oculist, "your zeal is getting the better of your common sense. Please don't interrupt my consultations."

The police withdrew, their leader casting doubtful glances at the suspected man. As soon as they were gone the patient grasped the oculist's hand.

"You have saved me," he said. "Tonight I shall slip across the border and tomorrow will be out of harm's way."

"I don't sympathize with nihilism," replied the oculist, "but my conscience is clear in your case on account of your valuable contribution to science."

The fugitive was stopped several times on his journey, but every time upon an examination of his eyes he was permitted to proceed. He finally reached the border and a few days later sailed for the United States.

STYLES FOR THE STREET.

Smart and Trig Tailor Gowns, Coats, Hats and Parasols.

Very trig and desirable is a shepherd plaid of silk and wool tailor cashmere smartly made for street wear. The skirt is one of the models most admired and sure to gain in prestige. There are two box plaits in the front, two in the back and side plaits filling in the spaces between, loosening out the bottom in good lines. An Eton bodice closed from above the bust line has a plaited postilion in the back and is belted in with a belt of the same plaid inset with white silk, black soutache lines and a line of red cloth. The bodice from the bust upward back and front is covered with bias strap lines interfolded into a design and appearing in a broad band upon the tops of the sleeves, below which the full sleeve balloons out. A fitted gauntlet has upon its edge lines the same soutache and color effects as upon the belt and in addition a medium ruffle of lace. The same ruffling trims the neck, which has a stock band repeating the same red, white and black, but adding as well a black silk cravat with short shawl ends so folded that a jabot of white lace falls under each sharp end.

The cut shows a walking gown of mixed cheviot trimmed with black braid. The over collar and cuffs of heavy white linen are scalloped and embroidered in black and white.

Short coats in black and dark colored silks prevail in two styles, one in which the skirt hangs in machine plaits, or box plaits and gauntings, the other in loose sack fashion. Shoulder capes broaden out the shoulders, and wide sleeves are plaited into big cuffs or gathered into straight wristbands. In birdseye pongee they are very handsome, trimmed over the shoulders with hanging straps of string colored macramé lace in different lengths back and front, with cuffs of the same. Hercules braid in broad widths trims both the white and ecru silk coats as well as the pale champagne clothes.

Extremely picturesque are the red linen and white canvas short coats, with full skirts and big sleeves. A red coat of this sort has a shoulder collar which begins with Bulgarian embroidery and after a few inches of color riot shapes itself by a series of red taffeta shaped folds into a wide shoulder cape. There is white lace at the throat and for sleeve cuff trimming. The white canvas coat is sack style, with a pointed hood of the same, lined with white silk, edged with blue velvet.

The decrease in size of toque and turban has met with great favor. As for full dress picture hats, they remain quite as large as before.

Pongee linen and the real pongees are always the sort of knockabout parasols that have a large following as the summer season draws near. Dark silks in single or in changeable tones—green, blues, plums and golden browns—are seldom missing as coverings for the "en cas" umbrella in what might be called "shower size," a compromise between a rain umbrella and a parasol. In this style are found long distance coaching or sun umbrellas in scarlet, leaf green, blue blue, strawberry pink and golden tans.—Vogue.

Gowns For Commencement.

The sheer fabrics, such as mull, dotted swiss, organdie, batiste, fine lawn and India linen. Paris muslin and point d'esprit, all make dainty frocks and not necessarily expensive ones, provided they are made at home, but this point depends largely upon the trimmings employed. While simplicity marks the new modes, it is in the lines only, as laces, ribbons, flounces and quantities of handwork characterize them all, says the Delineator.

Flounced and ruffled skirts as well as the straight full model are extremely becoming to youthful figures, and waists must have deep berthas or trimmings applied to produce the fashionable long shouldered effect, and there must be a loose slightly drooping blouse both back and front. The sleeves, too, are of great importance.

The finest of laces and nainsook embroideries are used to trim these dainty frocks, valenciennes and mochin being especially appropriate for sheer materials.

Besides the sheer fabrics there are soft, beautiful wool goods that have much to recommend them, as they offer delightful possibilities, are inexpensive and are admirably adapted to the present modes. Veiling and both silk and wool voile, cashmere, albatross and challis are very attractive materials.

IDA M. TARBELL, HISTORIAN.

Ida Minerva Tarbell, whose history of the Standard Oil company has caused much comment, first attracted attention with her short life of Napoleon Bonaparte in 1895 and a year later materially increased her fame as a historical writer with her "Early Life of Abraham Lincoln." Miss Tarbell is a native of Pennsylvania and is forty-six years of age.

LOVER OF OUTDOOR LIFE.

Physician's Son Returns to Primeval Ways to Regain Strength.

A son of a Portland (Ore.) physician has created a sensation in the scientific world by the startling and novel method of living which he has adopted, and which he advises all to adopt who desire perfect health and a rugged constitution, says the St. Louis Republic.

Ernest W. Darling, a son of Dr. J. W. Darling of Portland, is the man who advocates the return to the ways primeval. Until a year ago he lived in Portland, but was compelled to seek a sunnier clime on account of his health. For the past year he has lived on the summit of a hill on the outskirts of Los Angeles, Cal. He does not occupy a house nor even a tent. The sole habitation of which he can boast is a bed that consists of a hole in the ground of about 7 by 4 feet and 2 feet in depth. In that peculiar place, wrapped in blankets, he seeks rest. He is an ardent lover of nature and believes that by his method of living he is able to commune more closely with its invisible forces and at the same time build up his constitution, which was shattered by disease.

"Good health is the first requisite for religion or anything else," he says, when questioned concerning his novel ideas. "I firmly believe that if we take perfect care of our health, avoiding all accident or disease, we shall live eternally in these bodies of ours. Every person should learn gradually to live outdoors and to live on natural food—that is, food just as it comes from the hand of nature."

"The objects in living on natural food are:

"First—To make us more natural in thought and in action.

"Second—From an economical standpoint, it is far cheaper where these fruits grow. It is well known by travelers in the tropics that we can live on $1 a month or less.

"Third—There is a very decided humanitarian issue in this diet. No animal has to suffer imprisonment and final slaughter in order to feed the frutitarian. The frutitarian will take his meal directly from the tree and eat."

When he left Portland a year ago Mr. Darling weighed ninety pounds, while now he weighs in the neighborhood of 175 pounds. It was done without a drop of medicine.

He rises at daylight, takes a quick cold shower bath, then runs half a mile or so, throwing off superfluous clothing. Then he goes through a series of calisthenic exercises before eating breakfast of fruit. He declares that he eats regularly three times each day and always has a good appetite.

ANIMAL TALES.

A. Vaughn of Lebanon, N. H., has a hen that crows as lustily as any rooster.

A butterfly which a Chicago woman kept all winter and has recently died ate one drop of honey in every three days.

A. N. Albee of Warwick, Mass., asserts that he has killed twenty-seven black snakes this year of a total length of 122 feet, the longest being six feet and the shortest three feet.

A loon was shot recently in Connecticut, and when it was opened twelve hours later live salt water frogs were found inside it. Three of them were alive and frisky, while the others were in a comatose state and afterward died.

A vouched for story from Gates county, N. C., says a black snake nearly ten feet long swallowed fourteen eggs which it took from under a sitting hen. The snake was killed, the eggs were replaced under the hen, and in due time each egg was hatched.

PRIMA DONNA NORDICA AND HER MATRIMONIAL TROUBLES.

Prima Donna Nordica's marriage to and divorce from her husband, tenor Herr Zoltan Doome have hardly been "one grand, sweet song" after the search for a divorce. Herr Doome alleged that it had been pronounced a fraud and collusion, and the case is still before the courts. The couple were married in 1896.

MAN AT THE HELM.

His Strength and All Round Ability Sell the Household Squabbles.

In these days of dissatisfaction with women servants housewives should meet the problem. There is a time to stop this condition of affairs, and the time is at hand. It is an evident fact that servants must be forthcoming and not only servants, but satisfactory servants. There is no use in dilly-dallying any longer.

Men can be taught how to do any kind of work, and a grown man is no more difficult to teach than is a green girl, but when it is possible it is always better to hire a man that has had some experience in housework. Sometimes an aged man can be secured for very low wages. He may be slow in his movements, and yet because of his experience he will accomplish a great amount of work. Sometimes there is a poor man who has tried and failed to get the employment he desires, but who will take anything he can get. One such did the main part of the work in a three story and basement house, including the washing, for a family of three ladies and one young man. Man is especially valuable at the house cleaning period. The ease with which he takes down bedsteads and puts them up again, the swiftness with which he carries mattresses to the yard and the common sense way in which he beats and suns them appeal to any careful housewife, as does also the man's thorough beating of the rugs and carpets, his polishing of the windows, no matter how difficult they are to reach or how heavy to lift.

A woman house cleaner, no matter how willing she may be, could not compete with such a man, for physically she is not strong enough to do what is denominated heavy work, and when she makes an attempt at heavy work the usual result is unsatisfactory. Men do not mind the taking down of stoves or carrying coal to the top of a house, whereas such work to the ordinary serving woman brings severely sharp pain to her side or back.

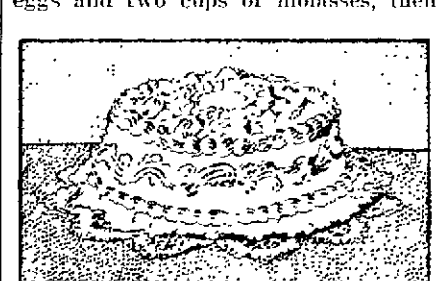

Therefore, if only for conscience's sake, employ a man, for if Bridget goes to the hospital after her work is over the blame must be put where it belongs.

Man's servants have a larger aptitude for work than have women. It is rare when they say of anything, "That is not my work," and because they are so competent, because of their all around ability, they make themselves more valuable. Even catering and marketing may satisfactorily be left to the man at the helm. And why should a woman labor under responsibility that she can set aside?

Shift responsibility when you can and keep the care lines out of your face. Secure the most experienced man that you can afford. Put that man at the helm, and you will have more hours of ease than you have hitherto imagined were possible. A trustworthy man can steer any home safely into the most comfortable harbor.—Emma J. Gray in Ladies' World.

one pound (four cups) of flour, sifted with one teaspoonful each of soda and cloves and two teaspoonfuls each of cinnamon and mace; then beat in the stiff beaten whites of twelve eggs and lastly, two pounds of seeded raisins, two pounds of sliced citron, two and a half pounds of currants and one-fourth of a pound each of candied orange peel and blanched almonds chopped fine. If the candied peel is hard, let soften in a few spoonfuls of boiling water before chopping.

The cake shown in the illustration is one-half of the recipe.

It is eight and one-half inches in diameter and three inches thick. A round cake is prettier for a table decoration than is the square loaf, but the latter will cut to better advantage when desired to pack in boxes as wedding favors. The cake is decorated in a very simple manner. In the center are the initials of the bride's name in German text. Outside of this and between two rolls of scroll piping are disposed small marzipan shaped like bells, with pearl headed pins for chappels.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Fashion's Echoes.

There is no article of a girl's wardrobe more satisfactory for comfort and service than an easy fitting coat in long three-quarter or shorter length.

Another fancy of fashion is the dainty lingerie hat that is made from sheer mull or batiste preferably, though silk, cotton or even lace is used.

Trimming makes the gown this season, above all previous years. There is no end to the various kinds of garnitures in vogue, and materials have grown to be without limit.

Not pointed in cloudy Dresden effects are new and attractive dress fabrics.

The flat "man's tuck" from two to four inches in width are fashionable skirt decoration.

The new embroidered cotton mulls and batistes show artistic effects and are by no means restricted to youthful wearers, as one might imagine.

A Pit of Death

[Copyright, 1904, by C. B. Lewis.]

In the years gone three brothers, all men grown and stillwell by name, came over from England and settled down on one of the mountains of Pennsylvania, and by and by it came to be known that they were prospecting for minerals.

Not much attention was given them, and it was a year or more after their arrival that the eldest one, Joseph by name, made his appearance on the streets of Mercersburg and stated that his brother William had disappeared in a mysterious manner and asked for assistance in locating the missing one.

Hunters and others searched the mountain for days and days, being paid in English gold for their services, but not the slightest clue could be picked up.

Seven months later the same man appeared again and announced the mysterious disappearance of his brother Thomas. A search by fifty men and lasting two weeks brought nothing further to light.

Not wishing to be alone on the mountain, the surviving brother engaged the services of a miner named Taylor, and for a year there was no cause for further excitement. At the end of that time the miner came to town one day to spread the news that Joseph, the last of the three brothers, had also mysteriously disappeared. When he left the house one morning, he went north over the same path the others had taken.

My father was elected captain of a party, and I went along with them. At least five other parties were strung along on the crest of the mountain for a distance of twenty-five miles, while yet other parties searched the foothills and ravines and the level country.

Of course there were theories by the score, but the one held by our party was that the three brothers had discovered some valuable mineral deposit—perhaps gold or diamonds—and the fact having in some manner come to the ears of a desperate gang hiding in a cave the three disappearances meant no less than three murders. I do not know whether any of the other parties held to this particular theory, but it was understood that our search was to be entirely directed to locations where the bodies of the murdered men might have been secreted.

At the end of three weeks, we being provided with tents and a plentiful supply of provisions, our little party had covered an area of three miles by ten—that is, every foot of ground from north to south, running over the mountain and down to the foothills on either side, had been so closely searched that not a woodchuck's hole had escaped us.

The last day's search brought us to the spot where Joseph had dug his fireclay. About forty rods south of the clay pit was a fine spring. It was to the east of what might be called the main trail running along the crest of the mountain. Between the spring and the trail was a fringe of bushes thirty feet wide, and one waiting water had to push through this fringe.

In the searches made for the missing brothers that spring had been visited thousands of times. Only ten years ago it was discovered to be a wonderful cure all, and a sanitarium has been built there for the benefit of individuals. On the day our party were to begin their search north of the clay pit I did not go out with them, the cook wishing my assistance in preparing dinner.

It was about 10 o'clock that I started out for a ramble by myself, and I had got within twenty rods of the spring and was intending to turn aside and get a drink when I caught sight of a bear coming toward me. It was a hot day, and I think he must have been fired on by hunters or pursued by dogs, as he seemed to be very tired.

As soon as I got sight of him I leaped behind a bowlder to my left and was sure he had not observed me. He had probably visited the spring before, for as he came opposite it he swerved to the right to reach it. The bushes were not so thick but I could plainly follow his movements.

When he had gone about twenty feet he uttered a "whoof" of surprise and dropped out of sight. I thought he had sunk down from exhaustion, and I waited a long quarter of an hour before moving forward. I advanced step by step, expecting to see him rise up every minute, and at length I got close enough to discover the mouth of a shaft or pit. It had been covered with vines and leaves, and even after I was sure that the bear and gone into it the spot looked almost safe.

Getting down on hands and knees and creeping to the edge of the pit, I could hear brain whining and shuffling below and such an odor rose up that I was speedily forced to retire.

I hurried along to the north, calling to the searching parties as I ran, and after awhile I got them together and told them about the bear. It was only after they had reached the pit and scented the dreadful odor that any one suspected the importance of my discovery. I shall never forget the pale faces and shivering limbs as they drew back and fled.

"Men, our search is ended and the mystery finally cleared up. The dead bodies of Joseph, William and Thomas are all in that pit and the bear on top of them!"

And so it proved. You may say that it is almost incredible that three men should turn aside at just that point when so many others had escaped, but it must be recorded as a strange coincidence. The bear was killed and hoisted up, the pit disinfected as far as could be done, and not only the remains of the three brothers were found, but of two other men and two or three deer as well.

Frederick Mannell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. A STAGGERING BLOW Johnstown People are Dazed by the Extent of Tuesday's Big Fire

Now Estimated That the Loss Will Surely Exceed $100,000 With About $60, 000 Insurance-- Plans for the Future Can Not Yet Be Definitely Announced.

Johnstown, O., June 8.—This village, which is the capital of Monroe township, and the pride of northwest-ern Licking county, has been struck a staggering blow by the disastrous fire which practically destroyed one-half of the business portion of the town.

The citizens in general have hardly yet recovered from the first shock to a realization of the true meaning of the catastrophe which has meant the loss of thousands of dollars to a number of the most progressive men in the town. There is a recollection of the scene of desolation and ruin of two years ago when another conflagration laid the business portion of the village in ashes, a remembrance of the pluck and nerve of the men who lost in that fire which resulted in a new and improved set of buildings being constructed upon the site of the ruins, and with all this comes a faith that again Johnstown will see the destroyed business houses rebuilt, the new to be better and more durable than the old.

While this faith is freely expressed by the average citizen, those who have lost in the fire are more conservative, and nothing definite is as yet known of their plans looking to rebuilding the burned district. Most of the buildings destroyed were substantial affairs, of brick and frame, but from the expression of those interested, as far as they would venture a prediction as to what they would do, the new buildings to be put up will be all of brick, so that the entire business section of the village will be not much more than two years old.

The town hall is situated on the corner of Coshocton street and Main, across from the burned district and is surrounded by a beautiful park. Tuesday this park became the temporary dwelling of some who were turned out and here as in every yard about the vicinity was covered with household goods removed to a place of safety from threatened buildings or represented salvage from those burned. Even in Johnstown, in the face of the terrible calamity that had befallen those who lost heavily in the fire, thieves got in their work and some articles of value were stolen.

It is the general impression that the water works system will now be hurried to completion, but those who intend to rebuild will not hurry the work but make it coincident with the

A LETTER

FROM THE REV. BEDFORD JONES, OF COLUMBUS.

To Mrs. Franklin, Says That Local Rector at First Declined To Give Consent To Request.

In view of the fact that the Rev. G. W. Van Fossen's friends sought in their explanation of his actions in connection with the Schroeder-Franklin wedding, which was published in Saturday's Advocate, to throw discredit upon the statement made in this paper's account of the wedding, that Mr. Van Fossen refused to allow the Rev. Bedford Jones of Columbus to solemnize the wedding in the church, the Advocate herewith prints the exact language of a letter written by the Columbus rector to Mrs. Helen Franklin, mother of the young woman principal in the wedding, which letter was given out by Mrs. Franklin today. Mr. Jones says: "I have just received word from Mr. Van Fossen that he declined to give his consent to my marrying your daughter on the first of June."

This refusal was a general one, and as to where it was intended to hold the nuptials, nothing was said by Mrs. Franklin as to whether she wished the marriage in the church or at home.

Rev. Bedford-Jones then adds after the opening paragraph just quoted that if Mrs. Franklin should herself ask permission of Mr. Van Fossen, and he persisted in his refusal, which he did not think possible, then Mr. Bedford-Jones could not officiate at the marriage.

Mrs. Franklin says she was put to the humiliation of going to a rector whom she did not admire, and with whom she did not wish to have any dealings, and ask his consent to allow some one else to marry her own daughter in her own home. It was then and not till then that Rev. Mr. Van Fossen granted Mrs. Franklin's request, conveyed by Major Thomas, the latter requiring the minister to put his consent in writing.

According to the above the situation may be stated as follows:

Mrs. Franklin did not want the Rev. Mr. Van Fossen to perform the ceremony at her daughter's wedding; he did not want any other Episcopal clergyman to do it, knowing that none would officiate without first getting his consent; Mrs. Franklin could have gotten a minister of some other denomination but this she did not want; it was under these conditions that Mrs. Franklin was compelled to ask the local rector's consent, which was granted. As to the statement that the use of the church was refused, Mrs. Franklin takes it that Mr. Van Fossen's refusal was a general one and included the church or home, in fact was a refusal to allow Rev. Bedford-Jones to officiate at the wedding any place in the parish, unless Mrs. Franklin should humiliate herself to him by asking his consent, which she considers she did when she made the request of the local clergyman.

Lock, O., June 8.—James Bryan, a prominent farmer, aged fifty-five years, and living about a half mile east of Lock, fell eight feet from a hay loft in his barn about noon Tuesday and was trampled by a horse and now lies unconscious at his home. He is in a serious condition. Doctors Buxton of Homer and Pennel of Mt. Vernon were called but they have little hope of his recovery. Mr. Bryan was married about four years ago.

Homer, O., June 8.—James Bryan, a prominent Bennington township farmer, fell from his hay loft Tuesday noon and sustained serious injuries to his head and right side. Mr. Bryan went to the loft to obtain hay for his horses but an old board broke, letting him fall to the ground. He was later found by Mrs. Bryan and surgical attention was given him.

The amount of the fees as published were the same as recommended by the board of health, whereas the council changed that part of the ordinance before it was passed.

OF THE IDLEWILDE TEAM ENJOY A REST.

The Boys Spent Tuesday at Buckeye Lake—Wagner and Flick Took Involuntary Bath.

The Idlewilde baseball team has had several days rest this week, on account of the cancellation of games with Parkersburg, where they were to have played. The team will go to Mt. Vernon for games on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, returning to play Mt. Vernon in Newark on Sunday.

The ball tossers have enjoyed their lay off and have been having a good time. Monday they went to Granville and saw the O. S. U.-Denison game while Tuesday was spent at Buckeye Lake boating and fishing. There is a report current that Ivor Wagner and Butch Flick fell in the lake, but if it is so they do not show any ill effects. Purcell and Wagner this morning beat Stone and assistant ground keeper Perry in a game of horseshoes in the rear of the Central Fire department, and afterwards others enjoyed the sport.

Walser has been let go as he has not played enough to be in the best condition.
